

SEMI-WEEKLY INTERIOR JOURNAL.

VOL. XXII.

STANFORD, KY., FRIDAY, APRIL 27, 1894.

NO. 17

HUSTONVILLE.

—Mrs M. G. Thomson was visiting in Harrodsburg the latter part of last week.

—Miss Minnie Duvall, who has been in Louisville for some time, is at home this week.

—Miss Katie Moore, of Christian College, and Miss Sherlie Park were at the former's home Saturday and Sunday.

—A fishing crowd, from lower Green River, passed through town the latter part of last week en route for Danville, their home.

—A tacky party was given by Mr. Bill McKinney's last Friday night. It was just awful to look at what a crowd of "tacks" were there, but through the masks there shone beauty and intellect.

—M. F. North, of Mt. Salem, was in Lancaster this week on legal business. Mr. J. J. McKinney is confined to his room by the failure of his eyesight. It will be some time before he can come out in the bright light.

—Miss Margaret A. Bennett, who is teaching at C. O., contemplates teaching a class in music during vacation. Those who wish to avail themselves of this opportunity should apply at once as her class is almost made up.

—We wish to correct the mistake of our last letter, which said that the Christian Endeavor Society met at Mr. Murphy's instead of Mr. McKinney's. Many apologies to Mr. McKinney for the mistake, and Mr. Murphy also, as to the members it makes no difference, they do good where ever they are.

—A certain class of young ladies of the town say: "Hello sport," which is, somewhat commented on by the young men of the town. Young ladies, let it be your resolve to say from now on, "good morning," "good day," and "good evening" it sounds so much nicer and does not make one think he is talking to a boy in women's clothes.

—Prof. M. G. Thomson left Friday for Lexington and other towns in Central Kentucky, looking after the interest of the College. There are few colleges in Kentucky that exceed C. C. Mrs. Wm. North, of Mt. Salem neighborhood, is in Garrard county this week, attending the bedside of her daughter, who is very low with heart disease.

—Dr. Bill Hunn's dwelling house burned Monday night about 10:30 o'clock. How the fire originated is not exactly known but it is supposed to have caught from the fireplace, where they had left a fire. There was no one in the building at the time but Allen Hunn, and when he woke up the fire was so far gone that it could not be stopped. All the furniture was saved but one room, nearest the fire. The room that was used as the parlor was filled with smoke and heated air until one of the window glasses blew out with a loud report making the fiery scene appear like a fort firing its guns. The loss will amount to $1,000, with an insurance of $800.

WILLIAMSBURG, WHITLEY COUNTY.

—The regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held at the Academy home next Saturday evening.

—Miss Sadie Snuffer entertained in honor of her birthday last Friday evening.

—All the coal miners have gone on a strike in the Jellico district. There are between 2,000 and 3,000 men now idle.

—Mr. G. A. Denham was in Louisville Saturday making a final settlement with Massillon Bridge Co., for building the county bridges. Miss Carrie Myers very delightfully entertained a few of her friends last Thursday evening.

—Two negroes have been captured and lodged in jail for robbing Stealy & Patrick's store last Tuesday night. They had an examining trial Monday before Judge Stinson and were held over. It is thought more are implicated. They were miners and lived at Central Jellico mine.

—Col. F. S. Horton has made another venture in the newspaper line having consolidated his paper with Snook's Journal and is now running under the name of Journal-Advocate. Col. Horton does not seem to be sailing on flowery beds of ease even in the republican party.

—Our carriage factory seems to be going to be a failure as Mr. W. R. Denham has made a very unfavorable report of the plant we expected to get which is now located at Carlisle, Penn. We hoped we would succeed in securing this business as we have many advantages here for a factory of that kind.

—Messrs. J. P. Cunningham and H. E. Fox, of Halsey, were in town Sunday. Elder J. E. Terry is holding a meeting at Manney Chapel. L. D. Denham and Walker Mason were at Grays Station Monday taking depositions. Miss Will Freeman has returned from Asheville, N. C., where she has been for several weeks. Wm. McKinney has gone to McKinney Station to visit his old home. The young ladies of Johnson Hall entertained a few of their friends last Friday evening. Mr. J. M. Sullivan is down with the rheumatism.

—President McBride, of the United Mine Workers' Association, reports that 125,900 miners are on a strike.

LIBERTY, CASEY COUNTY.

—Col. Silas Adams, who has been at home for several weeks at the bedside of a very sick wife, returns to his post at the National Capitol on Tuesday. Mrs. Adams, though still confined to her room, is improving.

—There was a nice social at John Belden's the other night at which the ladies were dressed very elegantly and the men in swallow-tail coats. The music was also extra good, and all went off pleasantly. There will be a social at the Exchange Hotel Tuesday night.

—Monday was county court day with only a moderate crowd in town, and not much business before the court. There was as usual this time of the year an exhibition of fine blooded horses on the square and on the track. Wm. Dodd, from Hustonville, was present with Gaudette Wilkes and Blood Bay Red Squirrel, Mac Humphrey with Messenger Boy, Charlie Bowman with Grady Wilkes, Geo. Derringer with a half Norman gray horse, and John T. Brown with the fine 4-year-old Bay Eagle.

—The prospectus of the history of the First Kentucky Cavalry was received at this place last week and agents are now actively at work and getting a flattering number of subscribers notwithstanding the hard times. The work will be elegantly bound in English cloth, and a finer binding of red Morocco and retail at $2.50 and $3.50 per copy which is from $1 to $1.50 cheaper than other regimental histories of the same size, binding, paper, &c. It is about the same price as works of a National circulation. The printing is unexcelled and from new type and free from typographical errors, with few mistakes. The following agents have commenced work: M. K. Humphrey in Casey, Wm. Allen and son in Garrard, Buford Kinnett in Marion, John Bourk and J. M. Godley in Pulaski, D. R. Trotter in Rockcastle, Thos. J. Graves in Washington and Mercer, and some few others. Agents will soon go to work in Lincoln and Boyle.

—My attention has been called to the following from Lexington in the Cincinnati Commercial of the 21st, with a suggestion that I should correct: "Major Helveti, teacher of languages at the State College, was stricken with paralysis this morning. Major Helveti is about 60 years old and is said to be a German Baron, and was banished from his native land for taking part in the revolution of 1848, with Carl Schurz, Franz Sigel, Turchin and others. He was a member of a Kentucky Confederate regiment in the late war. He is known among educational men everywhere." Major E. M. Helveti was not a major of the Kentucky Confederate regiment but was commissioned as major in the 1st Ky. (Union) Cavalry in September, 1861, was captured near Somerset, Ky., in December 1861, afterward exchanged, was put on detached service on court martials, and then served as Inspector-General on McCook's staff in the army of the Cumberland until April, 1864, when he was ordered back to the 1st Kentucky Cavalry and was mustered out as lieutenant-colonel of that regiment December 31st, 1864. Whether Lt. Col. Helveti was a German Baron or not I cannot tell, for though he was a genial gentleman, he was reticent while among us of his European history. We understood, however, that he had served in three different branches of the military service before coming to this country. Before closing my writing on the history of the 1st Kentucky Cavalry, I wrote two letters to him for the purpose of drawing from him whatever he was willing to disclose of his European life for a brief biographical sketch, but he failed to reply. The colonel was a fine drill-master and was familiar with all kinds of military business.

The Major died yesterday at St. Joseph's hospital.—Ed.

MIDDLEBURG, CASEY COUNTY.

—D. G. Elliott got on one of his drunks here Saturday, and behaved very badly.

—Owing to the bad weather there was no horse show here Saturday. It has been postponed indefinitely.

—Teachers are already very active in looking after positions. Some teachers are more active in securing schools than they are in teaching them.

—Miss Mattie C. Durham went to Mt. Olive, Saturday. Messrs. Mc. D. Jones and Fred Dalk went to Stanford Wednesday, the latter to go before the board of examiners for an increase of pension.

—James Bastin, aged about 50 years, died at his home two miles above town on the 18th inst. of consumption. He leaves a wife and several children to mourn the loss of a husband and father. Mrs. J. H. Newell died on the 20th inst. after a lingering illness of some three months. Mrs. Newell was a member of Mt. Calvary church where her remains were carried for interment.

"Then and Now"

(To the Editor of Interior Journal.)

ABERDEEN, GA., APRIL 20.—Does history repeat itself? About 125 years ago, Aaron Burr was a student at Princeton, N. J. His father had been president of the college and his grand-father, Jonathan Edwards, was president when young Burr entered as a student.

He was a precocious boy, endowed by nature with gifts that enchanted—manhood and beauty. He was like the idol of both men and women. His quick, bright, penetrating and profound mind gave him a superior perceptiveness to that of his fellow students and afforded him much time for recreation, and while his class-mates were bowed over dull text books he engaged his leisure moments in strolls over the fields and meadows around Princeton.

Tradition says that in one of his rambles he met a young girl in his pathway far more beautiful and engaging than is often seen by men. Though the daughter of a farmer near Princeton, she was one of nature's roses, and with her blooming beauties which were almost numberless, she at once captivated young Burr, so far as one of his heartless nature could be captivated. His asymmetric form, his meek face, his engaging eye, his mellow voice, his courtly and suave bearing all united in a determined effort to win the favor of this queenly beauty, for though a country lass she was already known as the "Queen of Hearts."

This innocent, this inexperienced, this trusting, this trustful, this angelic beauty, yielded to the importunities of this youth and gave him her hand with her heart in it. They had their trying place. He gained her confidence, he gained all, with her lovely and loving and tender hand in his they walked the meadows by day; they counted the stars by night; they pledged their love, and she was as happy as happy could be, as happy as the days and nights were long.

The session closed, young Burr received his honors and diploma, and left, promising to return, and take her for his own, which promise he failed to observe. It is the same old, old story. The Autumn came on, the leaves began to fall. Winter approached and Catharine Bullock could no longer conceal her shame. Her poor confiding heart broke. She could not withstand the frown of her ambition parents who had loved her so fondly. A few months after the birth of her child; though God's mercy they both died and are buried in a lonely place near Princeton.

Since the day of her death, the students have kept a beaten path to her tomb and once every Spring they adorn her grave with roses.

Aaron Burr lies buried in the cemetery at Princeton; but his grave is never looked on with a loving eye. History speaks of him as the "Despoiler of foreign courts." The man tried for treason, The Destroyer of Blennerhesset's Home, "The one who took the life of the great Hamilton." Such is the history in brief of this gifted man, who lived long enough to learn of the sad life ending of his beautiful daughter, Theodocia, who was lost at sea and whose eyes and voice was the last to look upon; and comfort him in love.

It has been many days since the Rev. Sidney McRoberts gave me this account to read. It was a favorite but sad romance for college boys to read 50 years ago and cannot fail to teach a good boy a good lesson to day. "HARRY JACK."

THEY WANT NAMES.—The Russell Art Publishing Co., of 928 Arch Street, Philadelphia, desire the names and address of a few people in every town who are interested in works of art, and to secure them they offer to send; free, "Cupid Guides the Boat," a superbly executed water-color picture, size 10x13 inches, suitable for framing, and 16 other pictures about same size; in colors, to any one sending them at once the names and address of 10 persons (admirers of fine pictures) together with six two-cent stamps to cover expense of mailing, etc. The regular price of these pictures is $1, but they can all be secured free by any person forwarding the names and stamps promptly.

Note.—The editor of this paper has already received copies of above pictures and considers them really "Gems of Art."

"You say you want to make a will?" said the lawyer in surprise. "Yes, sir." "But you told me just now that you hadn't a dollar to leave, and that your relatives had all neglected you so that you wouldn't do anything for them if you could." "That's just it. I'm going to make a will for revenge. I'll get 'em all tied up in a law suit that'll keep 'em poor all the rest of their lives."—Washington Star.

"That fellow Phipps comes here too much," said Susan's papa grim; "we'll have to put a stop to that—you must sit down on him." Now, Sue is an obedient girl, respects parental powers; so when young Phipps came around that night, she sat on him two hours.

—L. B. Selvers has been appointed postmaster at Waterloo, Pulaski county

LONDON, LAUREL COUNTY.

—Bro. E. H. Hackney has a fine boy at his house, but he won't call it Grover.

—Bad Bill Williams is back from the Cherokee Strip, as fat and "easy" as ever.

—Mrs. Ellen Morgan has put up a photographer's tent opposite Cheap John Pearl's, on Main street.

—Mrs. Ramsey and Lutes, of this city, are greatly pleased and very grateful for the kindness shown them on their recent visit to Stanford.

—George Farmer, who lived near the mouth of Laurel, was adjudged a lunatic Tuesday and taken to Anchorage Wednesday by Sheriff Moran.

—Dr. Jackson Givens, one of our democratic pension examiners, was compelled to walk up here from Pittsburg Wednesday on account of holls.

—Henry P. Brown, Sr., has been appointed town marshal, and offenders against the law and order of the town will certainly be attended to.

—Reuben Wilburn, aged about 80, died at the home of his son, April 24th. Mrs. Gilbert Miller died near Pittsburgh Monday night with pleuro-pneumonia.

—At a special meeting of the town board Tuesday the new town marshal was instructed to enforce the hog law, which has been dormant since last fall. There are at least 200 hogs loose in our city.

—Woody Bros., singing school teachers, gave a free entertainment at the Jackson Opera House on Wednesday night, which was largely attended. They succeeded in getting 45 scholars at $2 each.

—R. C. Scohee, sheriff of Clark county, brought Patton Whitley, colored, here Monday. He killed his wife at East Bernstadt about two years ago. Jas. W. Moran took him to the Stanford jail Tuesday for safe keeping, and says he is the toughest customer he has had in his charge for many years.

DANVILLE, BOYLE COUNTY.

(Advocate.)

—Miss Mary Shelby entertained a number of friends at "Arcadia" last night in honor of her guests, the Misses Shelby, of Lexington.

—An excursion train will be run to Cincinnati next Sunday morning. The round trip rate from Danville will be $1.75, the train leaving here at 6:10.

—The First and Second Presbyterian congregation communed together yesterday morning for the first time in 25 years. Dr. Young preached and Dr. Green administered the sacrament. The church was filled with communicants.

—At a meeting of the Danville Fair Association held Friday afternoon it was decided to hold an exhibition of three days only this year, to take place the first week in August, beginning Wednesday.

—Telegrams were received here announcing the death of Nellie Tilford, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Tilford, of Wichita, Kan. The deceased was only 17 years of age and fell a victim to typhoid fever.

—After a careful review of the field, it was found that the city contained 117 unmarried women over 25 years of age, and 70 widows. It was also discovered that there are in town 56 bachelors over the age of 30. If every bachelor would take to himself a wife we would still have 131 eligible women on the market.

—The jury in the suit against the Cincinnati Southern by Mrs. Bettie Vivion, of Cartersville, Ga., returned a verdict awarding the lady $3,500 damages. She was injured on the cars July 1st, 1892, while on her way to Lebanon, to visit relatives. She was preparing to leave the train when a sudden jerk, it is claimed, threw her down and seriously injured her.

—Simson D. Moore, one of the oldest residents of Boyle county, died at his home near Danville Saturday in his 82d year. Four children—Mrs. Mary E. Hudson, John B. Moore, S. A. Moore and W. B. Moore—survive him. Mr. Moore was a member of the Cumberland Presbyterian church and died with the Christian's hope of a peaceful rest beyond the grave.

—The Alabama temperance people held a convention and decided to make a non-political campaign of the State by counties, in an effort to have the next Legislature enact a local option law by which each saloon-keeper will be required to secure the names of a majority of the householders in his precinct to his petition before he can sell.

—Howard Nolan, arrested at Vancouver, Wash., for murder committed in Harlan, admits that he is the man wanted and that he killed Edward Pace and John Selzer in 1891. He left Kentucky then and joined the U. S. army.

The government can only pay wages by taxation; that is by seizing the earnings of the industrious and distributing them among others less industrious. Taxation for any such purpose is robbery, it matters not whether it is done under a protective tariff, a bill granting bounties or by Coxe's bill's to build roads simply to give employment to the idle.—Louisville Post.

The Winchester Democrat publishes a letter from Col. Breckinridge to Capt. B. A. Tracy, an old friend and army comrade, in which he says that he does seek a vindication of himself by a re-election to Congress, nor does he ask his people to approve or condone his sin, which he has under oath, in the presence of God, condemned him as no one else could. He does not attempt to defend it in any way, nor resort to the low plea that others are equally guilty. The people know his weaknesses and they know his virtues and capabilities, and they must decide if his services have not been faithful and whether or not they can afford to retire him. In any event, his career is not ended. There's plenty of work for God and his country and he intends to do a man's work every day for years to come. "The suit has not impaired my domestic relations," says he, "it has not impaired my intellectual or physical capacities; it has not destroyed my friendships; and while the storm of the public press is still pitiless, I have happy days to come in my life and work to do, and I manage to find something that will be worthy of my capacities; and if the good people of that district think it to be their interests to turn me out of public life, I shall not whine, nor utter a complaint, but shall be grateful to the friends who stand by me, thankful for the kind words they have uttered, and will try to do something that will justify their confidence in me." When the old silver-tongued goes before his people and in his matchless way places the whole matter squarely before them, it is going to be mighty hard for them to go back on him, and we feel safe in predicting that he will be re-nominated, even against the present feeling that he should not be longer honored.

The Indiana republicans went through the form this week of nominating a ticket for State offices and adopting a platform that denounces everything the democrats have done or will do. It condemns the tariff bill, the Hawaiian policy, the reckless and extravagant administration, the outrageous bargain and sale of Federal patronage by Cleveland, &c. Several references in the platform point to Secretary Gresham, who most republicans think sold his birthright for a mess of pottage. The party will make a strong fight in the State, relying on democratic discontent for re-instatement in the management of its affairs.

ATTORNEY STOLL says Judge Wilson has not answered his fiery letter and he begins to think he does not intend to "take his seat to write him a few lines." Of course not. Judge Wilson could not afford to dignify every little whipper-snapper, who chooses to abuse him, with a notice, and no one was better aware of that than Mr. Stoll. His hose pistols were only fired off for the benefit of the gallery gods, not to strike anybody, who would resent it.

The Indiana Supreme Court has refused the liquor dealer's application to reopen the question of the recent decision that rum saloons are nuisances, and that property owners can recover from them damages for the injury of their property, so the matter is settled so far as Indiana is concerned. The decision is the blackest eye the saloon has gotten in many a day, and will practically drive them from the State, if people who are injured by their proximity enforce their rights.

The president has violated a plank of the platform upon which he was elected by appointing C. R. Brooks, of Mt. Sterling, this State, to be attorney for the territory of Oklahoma. The democracy is for home rule and the president should have adhered to the pledge that the officials appointed to administer the government of any territory, together with the District of Columbia and Alaska, should be bona fide residents thereof.

The Lexington Leader says it is about settled that A. R. Burnam, of Richmond, will make the race on the republican ticket against Gov. McCreary for Congress. If this be true it proves that Brer. Burnam has more courage than discretion, which is the better part of valor. He ought to know his townsman better than to think he can have a ghost of a chance with him in the ring.

Mr. L. D. SAMMON, late of the Barbourville News, and later of the Louisville Post, has announced his candidacy for railroad commissioner. He is a republican and consequently stands no showing, but if he would make as good a commissioner as he does a journalist, the State would be the winner.

With 86 votes in the U. S. Senate and 45 of them claiming to be democratic, it is taxing the patience of the people beyond endurance to continue the suspense with reference to the tariff bill. The people, by a tremendous majority and an unheard of vote in the electoral college, endorsed the democratic doctrine of a tariff for revenue only, to meet the requirements of an economically administered government, and they will, and ought to, drive from power those who are striving to prevent a faithful fulfillment every pledge made by the democrats in convention assembled at Chicago.

Miss JANE REDMAN, a maiden upon whose head the sun of over 50 summers had shone, was so opposed to permitting the horrid men to see her in her night clothes, that when her brother's house at Wheeling, W. Va., burned the other night, she refused to flee until she had made her toilet. With plenty of time to escape, she thought only of how she would look, and while she was applying the powder and the rouge, the roof fell in and she was suffocated. Molested and a decent regard for the appearances are to be commended but Miss Jane realized too late that both can be carried to extremes.

While the republicans are rolling up majorities in democratic strong-holds in this off year of our Lord, 1894, it is pleasant to note that the democrats of "Sweet Owen," that Kentucky Paradise of Democrats, have surrendered no jot or tittle of the faith that is in them and stand ready to present a solid front to the enemy. At the primary election last Saturday over 3,500 marched up to the polls and voted and it wasn't a good day for voting either.

The 330th anniversary of the birth of William Shakespeare was celebrated at Chicago, by the unveiling of a $10,000 statue of him in Lincoln Park. The people there do not seem to take any stock in the views of the Baconian theorist that Shakespeare didn't write Shakespeare, but that the so-called Bard of Avon was an ignorant kind of a cuss, who had to make his X mark for his own name.

The editor of the Frankfort Capital says he will vote for the blackest negro in the district over Col. Breckinridge. "It is altogether as a man was raised," as a candidate said to a man in this county once who made a similar remark about another candidate.

The State Democratic Executive Committee has elected Field McLeod, of Woodford, to succeed Col. E. Polk Johnson as member of the 7th district committee. It is thought that he favors Owens for Congress.

Are the Catlettsburg Democrat and Shelby News edited by the same man? A number of the "editorials" in each this week are verbatim et literatim, et apellatim et punctatim.

NEWSY NOTES.

—Frank Hatton, the Washington editor and ex-postmaster general, was stricken with paralysis Tuesday.

—The next annual convocation of the Grand Commandery, Knights Templar, will be held at Paducah, May 16 and 17.

—It is now said that 237 persons were killed by the recent earthquake in Greece, 130 having perished at Malesina alone.

—It is again reported that a contract has been let for the building of 60 miles of railroad to reach the coal fields of Pike county.

—Miss Jane Redman lost her life in a burning building at Wheeling Tuesday while preparing her toilet preparatory to escaping.

—The Times says a Scott county woman who stuck a piece of glass in her hand 35 years ago, has just extracted it near her elbow.

—The horses in a funeral procession at Decatur, Ind., ran off and 11 people were piled in the road. One was killed and three injured.

—An eight-year-old son of Amos Boier, of Mason county, while playing with a rifle accidentally shot and killed his sister, two years his junior.

—Gov. Flower, of New York, has vetoed a bill allowing sons of veterans to carry arms in parade, but exempting them from militia service.

—A. R. Sutton, the Louisville forger, who got several hundred thousand dollars, was tried this week. The jury hung, 11 to 1 for conviction.

—A glass factory in Liverpool has glass doors, glass shingles on the roof and a glass smokestack, 105 feet high, built of glass bricks one foot square.

—Jesse Seligman, the millionaire banker of New York and London, died at the Hotel Del Coronado, California, of pneumonia and Bright's disease.

—MacEvans, a clothing merchant at Waverly, Ky., caught in the act of stealing, attempted to escape. He was fired upon by an officer and will die.

—Lawyer Bragg and Dr. Natel killed each other at Montgomery, Ala., the other day because one obstructed the other's view at a political speaking.

—"Bury me deep and have a big crowd at my funeral" wrote Austin Lynn, a brakeman of Newark, O., just before he swallowed an ounce of carbolic acid.

—The Slusher-Lloyd mill at Louisville was stopped by the referee in the 43d round. Lloyd had Jack Mellet's protege all but out in the 24th round, but Slusher broke his hand.

—Judge Morrow decided that the old councilmen are entitled to the office in Somerset.

—The State banks statement of March 26 shows that there are 167 in Kentucky with a capital stock of $15,934,423.72; surplus $5,567,951.31; deposits $23,504,627.97, and cash of $5,431,029.88.

—Twenty-three years ago Justice Lease, of Maestain, Mo., whipped his son and he ran away. This week he received his first tidings from him, in a letter that said he was married and had several children.

—Hon. Albert B. Stephens, of Floyd county, has announced his candidacy for the democratic nomination for Congress in the 10th district against Kendall and Congressman Lisle and others.

—Florence Blythe, the illegitimate daughter of Thomas H. Blythe, of California, will get all of his many millions, the supreme court having decided in her favor, against 100 other claimants.

—The wife of United States Marshal Turner, of Georgia, crazed by threats of White Caps against her husband and her family, wandered into the woods and died a raving maniac soon after being found.

—At Nicholasville a negro mob attempted to lynch a negro woman, her son and her paramour for murdering the woman's husband. The jail is heavily guarded by armed officials to protect the prisoner.

—John Myers and six other Louisville convicts, whose terms aggregated 61 years, secured duplicate keys and were to kill the guards and escape from the Frankfort penitentiary but their plans were discovered in time.

—The republican primary in Pulaski resulted as follows: county judge, Wm. Catron, sheriff, Wm. Cooper, jailer, A. J. Catron, assessor, R. Shadon, coroner, L. D. S. Patton, surveyor, W. R. Burdine, county clerk, N. L. Barnett, attorney, W. S. Hall. The vote was very light.

—This is likely a lie. A young man serving his term in the Massachusetts penitentiary for forgery refused a pardon because the law's penalty should be enforced. He works outside of the hours required of him, and sends whatever money he earns to the one who lost by his crime.

—Hogan's army of tramps broke into a round house at Butte, Montana, stole an engine, attached it to a train and went east regardless of orders. It was captured at Forsythe by the U. S. troops. At Billings the army repulsed the U. S. marshals sent to take them and pushed on only to be run against troops ordered out by the president. Frye's army stole a train and rode from Terre Haute to Brazil, Ind.

—The fourth annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans' Association was begun Wednesday in Birmingham. It is estimated that 15,000 ex-Confederates are in attendance. The most important matter considered was a report recommending a general plan for getting reliable data for an impartial history of the war and urging that the Legislatures of the Southern States be petitioned to have adopted in the State schools such histories as shall be indorsed by the association. At night the tableaux of States were successfully given by the Southern beauties selected for the occasion. Miss Eleanor Graves represented Kentucky and Miss Clark, Virginia.

MT. VERNON, ROCKCASTLE COUNTY.

—The stave and saw mills are having a good run.

—One of the trees cut here last week was 311 years old.

—A poplar tree on the Gentry place near town will make 15,000 feet of lumber.

—Mr. M. P. Newcomb has begun the erection of his dwelling in White's Addition.

—Irish potatoes are bringing big prices. It is strange that the people don't raise more of this valuable food.

—Bill Newcomb, charged with the murder of Mrs. Burks, came in Sunday night and surrendered to the jailer.

—The brass band, who are getting along very nicely, will shortly engage Prof. Chrisman, of London, as teacher.

—One of the Star Route mail pouches brought in a bundle of skunk hides to this place last week. Our postmaster sent them back.

—At last Fall's election 226 votes were cast by all parties in this precinct. At the late republican primary 226 votes showed up and by the same 226 was one of the candidates for judge defeated.

—Old John Brown! Every one was pleased to hear from him through your last issue. A warm reception awaits the old man when he returns to his native hills and may the day not be very far off for his coming.

—A few days since, while cutting timber near this place, Joe Warren found in a large tree five feet from the stump, an auger hole containing a hickory plug and a lock of woman's hair.

The auger hole had been overgrown by a four-inch growth of wood, and it must have been made 60 years ago by some superstitious person for the purpose of curing an aching tooth.

—Mrs. Cleo Brown, Mrs. M. C. Williams and Miss Nannie Kennedy are visiting in Louisville. Mr. J. C. Hocker, of Junction City, is with friends here. Mr. E. M. Denny and family left for their home in Ash Grove, Mo., yesterday.

Hugh Miller and Samuel Myers went to Garrard yesterday. Dr. E. J. Brown has returned from Philadelphia, where he attended the Medical University.

Democratic Convention Called for June 5th at Nicholasville to Nominate a Candidate for Congress.

At a meeting of the democratic committee of the 8th Congressional district of Kentucky, held at Lawrenceburg on the 26th day of April, 1894, pursuant to notice, there were present L. W. McKee, Chunn, R. B. Sweeney, G. A. Stewart, B. F. Slavin, B. M. Arnett, W. S. McGuire, R. R. Gentry, J. W. Bales, E. H. Galtier, A. Pennington, J. C. Beckham and J. J. Maraltay.

It was ordered that a district convention be held at Nicholasville, June 5th, at 1 p. m., for the purpose of nominating a democratic candidate for Congress in said district. It was further ordered that a convention be held at the courthouse in each county in the district at 2 p. m., Saturday, May 26, to appoint delegates to said district convention. It was further ordered that each county is entitled to one vote in said convention for each 200 votes cast therein for the democratic electors for president at the November election, 1892, and one vote for each fraction over 100 votes.

Ordered that a copy of these proceedings be furnished the Courier-Journal and the democratic papers of this Congressional district for publication.

FARM AND TRADE ITEMS.

—Iowa has 20 mile tracks.

—Corn is selling at $2.75 at the mill here.

—John Anderson sold to John Johnson, of Boyle, a small bunch of hifers at $19.

—Blanch Louise, 2:10, Paul, 2:09 and Guinette, 2:10, all pacers, are now owned in Boston.

—The Lexington running races will be started this year by Col. W. R. Letcher, of Richmond.

—Statistics show that there are fewer horses in America now than there were two years ago.

—William Hinn bought in Casey and Adair counties a bunch of nice 2-year-old cattle at 2c to 2½c.

—The manufacture of beet sugar in this country increased from 60,000 lbs. in 1887 to 43,018,787 pounds in 1893.

—Ed DeCerna, of New York, bought that great team, Mahala 2:19½ and Sea Girl 2:18½, for about $11,000 for the two.

—A. C. Barrow bought the George Snyder farm of 430 acres near Winchester at $25. It sold several years ago at $110.

—The entries to Harrodsburg trot close May 1st. Five dollars nominates. Write to T. M. Cardwell, secretary, for entry blanks.

—I have on hand a 15½ hand mule jack for service which will take the place of the jack, John S. Wells, recently sold. E. P. Woods.

—Springland, M. D. Richardson's gray colt by Longfellow—Aconite, has been heavily backed for the American Derby. He is also eligible for the Kentucky Derby.

—William Moreland has bought in the last week in this and Boyle counties about 300 hogs at 4½c to 4.60. He sold a portion of them in Cincinnati at 5c to 5.20.

—The guaranteed purses of the Harrodsburg Fair cover nearly all classes of trotters and pacers. Only $5 to nominate. Entries close May 1st. Write to T. M. Cardwell, Sec'y.

—Liberal premiums given to saddle stallions, mares and geldings at the Harrodsburg Fair, June 27, 28, 29. Write for full particulars and entry blanks to T. M. Cardwell, Sec'y, Harrodsburg.

—Colorado has 3,000,000 acres under artificial irrigation. The farm products exceed $12,000,000 a year. There are 1,500,000 cattle, 2,000,000 sheep. The coal fields cover 40,000 square miles. The supplies of marble, granite and other building stone are inexhaustible.

—May wheat sold at 57½c, the lowest price ever recorded on the Chicago Board of Trade, Tuesday. The day's transaction on the board made fortunes for a number of dealers, Fardridge's profits on the deal being estimated at $250,000 and those of S. E. Rosecrans at $100,000.

—The New Harrodsburg Fair, besides its guaranteed purses to trotters and pacers, will open a stake for saddle mares and geldings of any age, to close June 1st, when it takes $5 to nominate and $2.50 to start, payable the evening before. Amount of stake guaranteed $150. Write for entry blanks to T. M. Cardwell, secretary, Harrodsburg, Ky.

—The Kentucky Weather Bureau reports that wheat is in good condition; oats and clover are almost a failure, garden stuff will be very late this season, owing to the replanting being retarded by rain, and potatoes are rotting in the ground. The damage to fruit has been greatly over estimated. Many of the trees, particularly apple trees, are putting forth a new bloom, and there is a fair prospect for a crop especially of the later varieties. The prospect for strawberries, cherries and pears have also improved during the week. Tobacco plants are in a very unfavorable condition.

—The blacksmithing department of the Cincinnati Southern at Chattanooga was burned by an incendiary.

—A school-debate in Ohio was brought to a close by the killing of two and the wounding of six of the debaters, the schoolmarm herself playing a hand and a half in the argumentation.

—Near Mayaville a little boy and girl, children of Amos Boler, were playing with a rifle, when gun was discharged, sending a bullet through the forehead of the girl, killing her instantly.

EAGLE : BIRD.

Winner of the $500 stake at Lexington.

Winner of Sweepstake Premium at Lexington.

Winner of Aged Premium and Sweepstakes at Paris.

Won Second Money in $500 stakes at Versailles.

Won Third Money in $500 stakes at Nicholasville.

Won Fourth Money in $500 stakes at Stanford.

Won the $100 Consolation Purse at Danville.

Eagle Bird is a beautiful brown with small star, stands over 16 hands high, bay drawing mane and heavy tail.

Eagle Bird was sired by the great King Eagle, winner of more than 40 Blue Ties.

First dam by Star Eagle, son of Cabell's Lexington; 2nd dam by Hamlet Denmark, son of Washington Denmark; 3rd dam by Harris' Denmark, son of Miller's Denmark.

Eagle Bird will stand the season of 1894, at my farm two miles West of Stanford, on the Shelby City pike.

At $20 to Insure a Living Colt.

Money or cash note will be required when the fact is ascertained.

Eagle Bird is one of the grandest show horses in Kentucky. Monte Cristo, his uncle, is the only horse shown in the Blue Grass Circuit, that he did not defeat. He could be relied upon to make a gallant show whenever called upon and always finished as game as a race horse, although some of the "knowing ones" pronounced him no good.

As a breeder of fine, high styled, good colored colts, he is not surpassed by any horse in Kentucky.

Mares from a distance will be furnished grass after May 1st at $1.50 per month, and must be paid at the removal of mares. Care taken to prevent accidents and escapes, but not responsible should any occur.

R. P. WOODS, Stanford, Ky.

At $15 to Insure a Living Colt.

Money due when the fact is ascertained or mare parted with.

Connaught 2d 3512 is a fine individual and possesses the finest action of any horse in the country.

The Hackney is noted the country over for style, action and endurance. They have been bred for these qualities for over 100 years.

Connaught 2d was bred by James Coker, of Beethly Hall, East Dereham, Norfolk. Was sired by Victor of Beethly 1877; dam Boone 1875 by Highflyer 1866. He was imported by A. B. Thompson, of Crawfordsville, Indiana, June 3, 1893.

TESTIMONIAL.—We think the Hackney crossed with Kentucky mares will make good sellers and good horses for the Eastern market.

WHEELING IN CHINA.

Some of Bicyclist Lenz's Adventures in the Orient.

The Chinamen Make Him Mount and Dismount Innumerable Times—Taken in Charge by a Mob—Be-seized in an Inn.

[Special Letter.]

The success of the journalistic enterprise that led to the equipment of Stanley's trip to Central Africa, and the popularity of Keenan's travels in Siberia in the interests of the Century Magazine has given rise to another similar expedition which has already become famous as the world-girdling bicycle trip of Mr. F. G. Lenz, of Pittsburgh, in the interests of the Outlook Magazine.

Mr. Lenz set out from City Hall park, New York, a little more than a year ago. His passage across the continent and over the Pacific was scarcely different from that of numerous other tourists, and even in Japan his experiences, though pleasant and picturesque in the telling, were not especially adventuresome. The Japanese are at worst a friendly people, and at best their culture and artistic sense proved equal, to say the least, to that of a representative American cycling fiend. Some of the excellent photographs which show Mr. Lenz in bicycle costume among the daintily dressed natives leave one in considerable doubt as to which are the semi-civilized and which the civilized individuals. Throughout Japan, and even in the coast districts of China, the American wheelman, astride of his novel two-wheeled machine, was an object of dread and aversion, which he sets down to the score of superstition, but which the lover of things cultivated and oriental is tempted to attribute to a different sentiment.

The advance sheets of the April issue bring him among the pagodas of China. From the eastern coast he followed the grand canal to Chinkiang and then pushed westward along the Yangtsi river valley through Hurnan, making occasional detours to interesting spots. His experiences with the natives as he journeyed along the valley become more in the nature of adventures. The difference between the treatment Mr. Lenz received from the Japanese and the inland Chinese is about the difference between the treatment of a camera fiend in polite

AMONG THE PAGODAS OF CHINA.

American society and at a country picnic. In some cases in China Mr. Lenz was much more in the picnic than of it. Here are some of his adventures in his own words:

"Seven miles east of Tapingfa the streets were too rough to ride. Noisy natives at once swarmed round me, stopped the wheel and insisted that I mount. I was determined to be always good-natured, and complied. I had bumped along a few yards when two fighting dogs rolled out of a house into the street. Of course, it was my luck to run foul of them, and over I went, among the curs. The Chinese were convulsed with laughter. Unfortunately, however, I pushed over an empty frail stand, entirely by accident. One howl from the proprietor, and he and his wife grabbed the wheel. Excitement ran high. I gave him a handful of 'cash' (small brass coin) and he howled worse. I then picked up a stone and hammered the thing together. The crowd saw my good intentions, and persuaded the man to let me go, whereupon I breathed easier. They managed, however, to relieve me of my field glass and handkerchief which I had foolishly carried in my outside coat pockets. It was in Tanyang that rioters, in 1891, burned the buildings of the Jesuit missionaries which had been standing for three hundred years.

"Just before reaching Chinghsiang a mob took me in charge. They compelled me to mount and ride through the crowded streets, everybody darting into the shops on hearing the cries of the crowd to clear the way. I was progressing nicely, but one of the Chinamen following thought I ought to be going faster and gave me a tremendous shove. Sad to relate, the wheel struck a Chinaman who was unable to get out of the way, and he and I and the machine sprawled over the pavement. My persecutors viewed this performance with a holy, chastened joy. Next, two Chinamen took it into their heads that they could ride the bicycle. I mounted them in succession, pushed them along a few rods, and intentionally dumped them in the street. The natives yelled themselves hoarse, and I might have been responding to encouragements for this act yet had I been so minded. But I was too scared and gladly reached the foreign settlement, with its macadamized streets, and left the pursuing crowd far in the rear.

rapidly overhauled. Small donkeys, with jingling bells, were quite numerous. I met an elderly Chinaman astride a very small and evidently a nervous donkey. The beast feared the wheel and, to my horror, jumped down from the raised road into a rice field. The old man was thrown in a heap. I hastily dismounted, thinking he was seriously injured, or killed outright. He struggled to his feet and instantly motioned me to ride on, being far more anxious to see the strange wheel run than about his own hurts. After the old boy had seen me ride, we grinned farewell.

"Farther on a woman and a small boy were thrown off donkeys in the same way; but Chinese wear so many layers of wadded clothing in cool weather that they are seldom hurt by a fall."

He relates another interesting incident: "Once when I was silently approaching a Chinaman from behind, I called out to him. Poor fellow! he no doubt was used to a quiet and uneventful life in his humdrum country. He slowly turned his head to see who called to him so loudly, then made one grand jump to get out of the way. His feet slipped, and with a terrible yell he rolled over the bank and into the canal, up to his waist. Two baskets of bean bread which he carried on a pole, followed him into the water. Some way or other, I thought it more prudent to wheel on without lingering to offer sympathy."

Lenz's adventures at the Chinese inns were always spicy and oftentimes exciting. "In one instance at a small village near Likiang the usual noisy crowd followed me into the inn. The good-hearted innkeeper besought me to stroll up and down the street, in order to pacify the curious crowd. For an hour I was surrounded by Chinese, all feeling my clothes and gazing at me. They would not leave, and when I entered the inn all followed. The landlord handed me a stick, and implored me to whip them out, as if I were some modern Hercules. So afraid are these people of the foreigners that they ran when I but raised the stick. The door was barred, but the crowd pushed in the frail brick wall. The landlord fairly screamed with anger, and a fight seemed inevitable; but it only ended in hot words. I almost regretted that I was not camping out, instead of being the cause of so much trouble.

"When I rolled myself up in my blanket and a quilt the crowd, at last left the inn. Then the kind old innkeeper brought rice, fish and tea until midnight. Now and then he sorrowfully pointed to the collapsed brick wall. In the morning I paid him five hundred cash pieces (about thirty-five cents) for accommodations and his loss. He was overjoyed at receiving those pieces. While dressing one morning at Tongling I heard the bang! bang! of pistol shots. At the rear of the inn was a crowd of seared Chinamen surrounding my bicycle. One of them had pulled out the revolver from the luggage which I had forgotten to remove before retiring and pulled the trigger, luckily without damage. It might have fared hard with me had he accidentally shot a bystander."

For a long time nothing was heard of Mr. Lenz, and it was generally supposed that he had been killed by the natives. He arrived in India at last, however, bruised, battered and dispossessed of his outfit. He had had to carry his wheel in a cart much of the way, and it was in such a condition that he had to send for a special check to pay for the repairs. He had met a hard fate among a class of the natives who were more than ordinarily inclined to amuse themselves. The last installments of Mr. Lenz's manuscript have been recovered from Kia Kiang and will be reported during the spring and early summer.

A lady who had spent a great deal of time in trying to teach her servant to make a good drawn-butter gravy, and who found no little scolding necessary to accomplish it, called Bridget in to the dinner table one day and said, severely:

"Bridget, this drawn-butter gravy is actually bitter!"

"Is that so, ma'm?" asked Bridget, sorrowfully.

"It is, Bridget. Now, how do you account for it?"

"I do know, ma'm; but I do be thinkin', ma'm, that I dropped a tear into it!"—Youth's Companion.

LIVE STOCK.

SHEEP BARN.

For the Accommodation of a Large Flock of Breeding Ewes.

Mr. Oakleigh Thorne of Thorndale farm, Dutchess county, N. Y., describes in The Breeder's Gazette a model sheep barn which he has succeeded in evolving from the needs of the occasion and his own intelligence. The structure accommodates 250 breeding ewes and six rams. In its planning Mr. Thorne says he considered the health and comfort of the flock, economy of labor, utility of space, durability and appearance. He writes:

I finally decided that a side hill barn 200 by 50 feet with an L on the south-west corner 28 by 42 feet and an extension 30 by 30 feet on the north side, as per plan No. 2, would meet all requirements. The basement is extended for breeding ewes, the southwest extension for the rams and shepherds' rooms and also to break the northwest winds from the yards, and the extension on the north side for a root cellar in the basement and grainroom overhead.

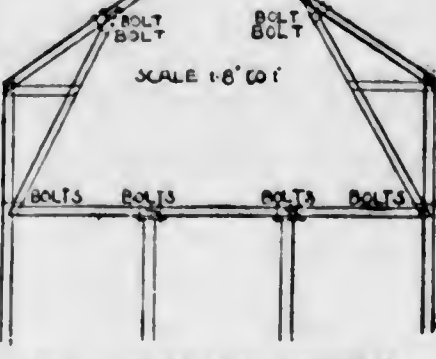

FIG. 1—SHEEP BARN, END VIEW.

The foundation walls are 2 feet 8 inches thick and 14 feet high "above ground," built of faced stone laid in cement, plastered on the outside with a mixture of pitch and tar. The lumber used is all of first quality of the following dimensions: Sills, girts, posts, levers and main rafters, 8 by 12 inches; floor timbers, 4 by 12; studdings and rafters, 2 by 10; flooring, 2 by 6, matched. Roof sheathing tight and shingled with California red cedar shingles.

The basement is 14 feet high, and I have an abundance of windows. The lower panes of glass, which are stationary, are 30 by 15. The upper glass is 15 by 15, set in sash and operated by the Hatching system of ventilation, which is in common use in greenhouses. It is operated by one crank in the center of the building. By this means I get equal ventilation and save time by opening or shutting all the windows from one central point and by one movement.

The doors are 7½ by 10 feet, hung with a steel band running over a pulley and run up and down. As the doors weigh but five pounds more than the weights, they run very easily and so far work most satisfactorily. The slat doors are hung in the same way just inside of main door. I left nine inches between the center braces, running an iron bar through, which can be easily pulled out, the idea being to take it out when the feed is being put in and the ewes and lambs are out in the yards, to allow the lambs the opportunity of having the first pick at the feed.

The doorways are rounded with narrow matched stuff, so that the ewes cannot get jammed running in or out. The posts in basement are round, 14 inches in diameter. The corners of all racks are planed off, and, in fact, there is not a sharp corner in the basement where a ewe can rub her fleece loose.

I have divided the space into five pens, as shown in plan No. 2. The silo in northwest corner is 10 by 12 by 30, thoroughly braced and secured. Each pen has access to water and a yard. At the present time I have 234 imported ewes, all supposed to be with lamb, in this basement, and they have all the room they need, and I have not had a sick sheep this winter.

The L is divided into a shepherd's room and five pens, in which I keep the stock rams. The room is perfectly plain and at all times contains a warm stove, Jersey milk—without tubercular bacilli—and a wee drop of gin, which ingredients, if properly mixed and applied, make the best combination for a weak lamb or a cold shepherd that I know of.

My buildings—27 in number—and stock are always subject to inspection, and it affords me much pleasure to show them to any interested in the breeding of live stock. I will be pleased to send photograph of my new barn to any one on application.

In Nevada wild horses are so plentiful in some localities that they are a downright nuisance. The stallions—splendid fellows some of them—haunt the ranges and coax away the civilized mares, which once they have joined the wild herds become as untamed as any. For this reason the cowboys have a horse killing picnic, in which the wild stallions are shot down without mercy.

DEATH.—John Joslin, one of the oldest citizens of the East End, died Monday, aged 80. He had been a Mason and an Odd Fellow for over 50 years, and he was buried by both orders Wednesday. The cause of his death was cancer.

WHAT about the fair here? A month or so ago there were lots of talk about having one but it seems to have all died out. With the splendid show of stock and fairly good crowd of last year it looks as if it would not be risky to try it again.

THE Cincinnati Southern will run an excursion from Junction City and all points north next Sunday at $1.75 for the round trip from the starting point. Train leaves at 6 A. M., arriving in Cincinnati at 10:20, returning, leaves Cincinnati at 6 P. M.

THE fire from the burning planing mill and furniture factory at Lebanon, of F. H. Lanham & Co., detained passenger train 23 nearly two hours Wednesday. Besides the plant, three stables, a dwelling and a dry-house were consumed. Loss, $15,000, partially insured.

WILL BUILD.—Mrs. Judge Stephen Burch has contracted with J. L. Totten for a two-story, eight room dwelling on the lot she recently purchased from Dr. Steele Bailey, just beyond that gentleman's residence on Danville Avenue. The cost of the building will be $3,000. Sine & Menefee's estimate on it was just $5 more. Work will be begun at once.

SIMON NORRIS, who a week or so ago shot Tom Welsh, also colored, in the leg, was tried before Judge Ward Moore at Crab Orchard Tuesday and acquitted. Both darkies were drinking when Norris did the shooting. At the trial Norris stated that he thought under the new constitution there was no law against shooting a drunken negro. Now the question arises as to who has been construing and explaining the new constitution in the East End?

QUIT a large crowd saw the elephant with Col. Copeland at the Opera House Tuesday night, and there was a general expression of delight. The number was insufficient, however, to lift the lecture club out of debt and it closed its books with $48.80 on the debit side. Rich men like Rev. W. E. Ellis don't mind putting up $12.20 for the good of the cause, but poor folks like Clarence Tate, Will Severance and the writer are not particularly hilarious over the matter.

You will find the best stock and lowest prices at A. R. Penny's.

OUR great sale of sample shoes has been the talk of the town; no wonder when we are selling $3.50 and $4 shoes and slippers for $1.98. Another lot just received. B. F. Jones & Son.

THE weather is beginning to behave a little better. Yesterday and the day before were such as to rebuke the statement that Spring would be but gloomy weather if we had nothing else but Spring. It would do for the year around.

MR. E. W. SMITH returned yesterday from Chicago where he went with the water works committee of Danville. He tells us that the plans will be on exhibition by May 15th and that the letting of the work will occur on the 30th of the same month. Mr. Smith is now regularly employed as engineer by the Danville company.

TOM BUFORD DEAD.—A message from Eld. J. G. Livingston informs us of the death of Mr. Thomas Buford, at Kansas City, Wednesday. He lived here for a long time, holding the office of jailer for a term very satisfactorily. His wife was a sister of Mr. Livingston and she with several children survive him. Mr. Buford was a member of the Christian church and a good man.

IN order to learn the feeling of the community on the question of granting liquor license, since Rowland has been given the right for another year, a reporter interviewed each member yesterday, with the result as given below. It looks to us like it would be the most practical and sensible course for the council to grant license, since we are to get the evil effects from the sale all around us and get no revenue. In the meantime the question could be settled finally by the Court of Appeals, and if it is against the decision of Judge Sauley, all licenses would expire about the same time and we would have prohibition at once and in earnest. Briefly, these are the answers to the question:

MAYOR S. G. HOCKER: "I am for granting license, especially since matters have assumed their present condition."

JOHN S. HUGHES: "Eternally opposed to granting license under any circumstances."

S. H. BAUGHMAN: "Hav'n't thought sufficiently on the subject to express my opinion, but I think the quickest and surest way would be for those in favor of licensing saloons to petition the council."

WIN. DAUGHTERY: "I will vote against issuing license, both at the polls and in council."

J. K. VAN ARSDALE: "Under the present circumstances, I believe it would be the best policy to grant license."

JOHN A. ALLEN: "I am for prohibition, but I am in the council to represent the wishes of the people in that and all other matters."

W. L. WITHERS: "I am now and always have been in favor of licensing saloons here."

It will thus be seen that no action will be taken with result, unless a petition is made to the council, and the saloon men tell us that that is impracticable since there are many people, who while of the opinion that license should be granted under the circumstances, object to putting their name to a paper or taking any hand in the matter.

MATRIMONIAL MATTERS.

—It is said that 24 per cent. more brunettes marry than blondes.

—Gertrude Morse, daughter of a professor at Hanover College, Ind., has sued Paul B. Scarff, of Burlington, Ia., a student at the college, for $10,000 for breach of promise to marry.

—McKINNEY-COURTS.—Wednesday afternoon in Danville at the residence of Rev. Lapeley, Mr. A. A. McKinney, assistant cashier of the First National Bank, of Stanford, and Mrs. P. K. Courts, ex-postmaster, were made husband and wife. Immediately afterwards they returned to the groom's home here and next morning he was at his place in the bank and she at her flourishing millinery store. The bride is handsome, stylish and engaging of manners and during her stay here has made many warm friends. The groom was born and raised here, where he has the confidence of the entire community. He is an excellent business man and as a lover has proven himself constant and true. In fact they have both been devoted to each other for years and if they continue to love as well their marriage can be productive only of happiness. The INTERIOR JOURNAL holds them both in the highest esteem and wishes them a full realization of their brightest dreams of conjugal felicity.

—Dana is in Europe, but his spirit remains in the Sun office. That paper pronounces President Cleveland's letter to Chauncey F. Black, of Pennsylvania, a dishonest document, and says no other adjective can properly describe it.

—The Kentuckian says that the Paris Distilling Co. shipped 1,378 barrels of whiskey by the L. & N. to Norfolk this week, requiring a special train of 24 cars. This makes 82 cars they have exported this season.

CHURCH AFFAIRS.

—Eld. Jasper G. Livingston will preach at Sugar Grove Sunday at 11 o'clock A. M.

—Rev. Ben Helm will preach at the Presbyterian church at 11 A. M. and 7:30 P. M. Sunday.

—Rev. J. O. Rust's meeting at the Lebanon Baptist church continues, with 25 additions.—Falcon.

—Rev. Charles H. Nash raised $5,000 after his sermon last Sunday to help complete the new Baptist church at Hopkinsville.

—Eld. W. I. Grubbs, of Lexington, will preach at the Christian church at Junction City on the second Sundays of each month during this year.

—There were 18 additions to Uncle Joe Hopper's meeting at Paris, which closed Sunday night. While there he raised $248 for the synod's evangelistic work.

—Dr. Clark, of Boston, founder of the Christian Endeavor Society, was in Louisville this week. He says that the membership now numbers 2,000,000, with 30,000 Societies.

—A congregational meeting of the Presbyterian church has been called for the ensuing Sabbath at usual hour for morning services. A full attendance of the membership is desired.

—Rev. Dr. Weaver announced that the meeting at the Baptist church would close last night. He has presented the Gospel in a plain and practical manner and endeared himself to the people. In all there have been 10 additions to the church.

—Mary Gilmartin was shot to death on a street in Cincinnati, by Father Dominick O'Grady. Both of them are recent arrivals from Ireland, and seems that the priest had followed his victim to this country, after their relations had caused unfavorable gossip.

—Too much time is rarely ever given by church choirs in practicing hymns of praise; and this is indeed the neglect of an important Christian duty. Church music should by its magnetism draw people to worship who otherwise would stay away. Music is recognized the world over as an important feature in public worship and its good effects crop out in sundry ways. Every church should have an organized choir of at least 18 or 20 members, who are individually and collectively willing to exert all energy and ability in producing a "concord of sweet sounds." It should be remembered by choirs that it is not the fellow who sings loudest that makes the most music—a pig under the fence makes much noise and no music.—Ex.

Infanticide. Bro. Morrison's Meeting.

(To the Editor Interior Journal.)

NICHOLASVILLE, APRIL 26.—The coroner's jury has just ordered the arrest of a Miss or Mrs. Haskell for infanticide, the supposed father a man by the name of Williams, at Somerset, and the negro woman at whose house the child was born. The Haskell woman came here a short time ago from Somerset. The child was born last Friday and it is affirmed was buried alive, the remains being found in the negro woman's premises.

Bro. H. C. Morrison is having a glorious meeting here; many people are rejoicing in conscious salvation and 20 or more in sanctification as preached by the holiness people.

—In the southeastern mining district of Kentucky, where was being paid the highest wages in the country, 3,000 miners have obeyed the orders of the United Mineworkers' Association and gone out on a strike, in face of the fact that they worked on an average of but 146 days during the past year, and the operators' supply of coal is ample, while the miners' supply of money or food is nil. Organization may, and doubtless does, benefit laborers in general, but it sometimes works greater harm to individuals and localities.—Louisville Times.

—There are 155 home Building and Loan Associations doing business in Kentucky, with assets of $14,000,000. In addition there are 11 foreign companies, which have $406,000 loaned in the State.

—Since the decision against the constitutionality of the dispensary law, car loads of whiskey are being shipped into South Carolina and bar rooms are running wide open.

Commissioner's Sale

GREEN BRIAR SPRINGS

D. G. Slaughter's Adm., Plaintiff, Against D. G. Slaughter's Hrs. and Crs., Defs.

Pursuant to a judgment herein at the February term of this Court, the undersigned Com'r will

On Monday, May 14, 1894

County court day for Lincoln county, between the hours of 11 A. M. and 3 P. M., at the court house door in the town of Stanford, sell at public auction to the highest and best bidder, Green Briar Springs, free from the claim of dower of homestead of the decedent's widow.

The buildings and equipments are all new. The tract of land consists of 20 1/2 acres, situated 1 1/2 miles from Crab Orchard, on the road leading to Dripping Springs, comprising two tracts of land, one body.

Green Briar Springs will be sold to pay the debts of decedent and the costs of this action, the proceeds of the personal property being insufficient for that purpose.

Terms of Sale.—On a credit of 6 months, purchaser to execute bond with approved security, payable to Com'r, bearing 6 per cent. interest from day of sale until paid and having the force and effect of a judgment. Lien retained on the property as additional security for purchase price.

R. C. WARREN, Master C. in & r. Lincoln Circuit Court.

The Commissioner will also, pursuant to said judgment and on same terms, sell to the highest and best bidder at public outcry on May 28, 1894, county court day for Garrard county, at the court house door in Lancaster, the STOREHOUSE and LOT, situated near Faust Lick, in the forks of the Richmond, Lancaster, Lowell and Spoonville turnpike roads.

Why Its Delay Caused a Happy Marriage.

"I love her, mother," said Guion Ester-hall.He was not, in a general way, much of a talker. Consequently, when he spoke, his words had the weight of sense and rarity. But Mrs. Esterhall, the fine old lady who sat erect before the clear, sea-coal fire, was too much excited to consider all this."The wife of my son, Guion," said she, "should be a lady, born and bred—not one of those girls who have had to fight the world until all gentleness, grace and unselfishness are ground out of them. No, I can never give my consent."

The young man smiled slightly.

"Mother," said he, "the diamond itself hardly possesses its true financial value until the facets are ground with much friction.""Humph!" said Mrs. Esterhall. "No one is talking of diamonds."

"I may bring her to see you, mother?"

Mrs. Esterhall snook her head.

"I have no desire to receive her," said
she. "But, Guion, here are the tickets for Henry Irving to-night. Carrie Chippendale has promised to accompany me —of course, you will be on hand at half-past seven to be our escort?"

"If you wish it, mother."

The old lady smiled to herself when Guion was gone."A little management," she thought,
"a little judicious firmness, and Guion will get over this boyish fancy of his.
The idea of a shop girl for my daughter-in-law—for Mrs. Guion Esterhall! I think the lad must have taken leave of his senses!"And in her secret heart she rejoiced with an exceeding great rejoicing when Miss Chippendale arrived that evening, in a pale-blue moire gown, cut decolete, with a glittering necklace around her perfect white throat, and a bunch of hothouse roses in her corsage."If we are to have a private box," said Miss Chippendale, buttoning the seventeenth button of her glove, "one may as well go in full dress, don't you know?""My dear, you are looking lovely," said Mrs. Esterhall, approvingly.Miss Chippendale was a sort of human camellia japonica—fair, graceful and serene—with big, expressionless
blue eyes, cherry-red lips, flax-gold hair, drawn in fluffy curls over her forehead, and an unchanging society smile perpetually hovering around her lips. She had been highly educated, and she was destined by her parents to make a brilliant match. The Chippen-dales belonged to the aristocracy—that is to say, they had never done any work and had always spent a great deal of money. And Mrs. Esterhall had decided that Carrie Chippendale was the very wife for her son.She went shopping the next day, to match a shade of Berlin wool, to buy some lace flounces and to decide on new portieres for her drawing-room down at Esterhall manor. At one or two o'clock she experienced, not hunger, but a lady-like sensation that "tired nature" needed some sort of "sweet restoration.""I will go into Marietta's," she thought.Marietta's was full, as it generally was at that time of day; but presently the old lady succeeded in obtaining a seat in a certain angle, where the waiter took her order for a chicken salad and a cup of tea. Just then she heard a clear, low voice on the other side of the drapery, as a party settled themselves to a table—Miss Chippendale's self, well-modulated tones."Oh, yes, Irving was very fine," said Carrie. "Oysters, please—a box-stew for one and fritters for two and three cups of Vienna chocolate, nicely frothed, waiter—but all the same, I nearly died of cold. The old lady is the most dreadful bore you ever knew,
and Guion is a regular pig. Unhappily, you know, and very talented, of course;
but one doesn't want to be on full-dress parade as to one's brains the whole time. He isn't half as nice as Freddie.
Fortune—only poor dear Fred hasn't a cent to bless himself with, and papa looks thunderclouds at me whenever he calls. But once I'm married, it—"A chorus of well-bred giggling interrupted Carrie's words. Mrs. Esterhall rose hurriedly from her seat, grasped her gloves and eyeglasses and made all haste out of the restaurant. When the waiter came with the chicken-salad and the tea he found his customer gone.
The unconscious Miss Chippendale and her friends enjoyed their Vienna chocolate and oyster fritters very much indeed.Mrs. Esterhall decided to return to the manor at once. Carrie Chippendale's graceful treachery had affected her more than she had deemed possible; and, leaving a hastily written note to explain to Guion that she had interrupted her plans, she took the late express, which reached Cleveland Junction at nine, then connecting with a branch train for Esterhall station. She was traveling alone, as her maid remained to pack up the last things and follow her the next day.There had been a heavy snow-fall, the night had settled down dark and tempestuous, and the train was running behind time. At last it came to a full stop. Mrs. Esterhall started from a doze and looked anxiously around her."Ten o'clock!" some one said, consulting a watch. "Why, conductor, we are due at Cleveland at five minutes before nine!""Yes, I know, sir," spoke the official,
"but the road is all blocked, and the western express is overdue at this point.
We're waiting here for the signal to move on.""And what's to keep us from waiting all night?" petulantly inquired the old gentleman."Nothing, sir—unless the western express is heard from."Mrs. Esterhall began to be a little frightened."Conductor," said she, "is there any danger of a collision?""No, ma'am—not as long as we're on this side of the switch.""Isn't there a dining car attached to this train?""No, ma'am—this isn't the through express, but I hope we shall not be detained here much longer," the conductor cheerfully added.Slowly the minutes dragged themselves by, gradually lengthening into hours. The passengers gathered in knots and whispered. One or two of the more adventurous spirits got out, peered into the darkness, checked only by the driven snow, and then got in again, with the customary uncomplimentary comments on the railway management. Mrs. Esterhall was nervous and unaccustomed to travel. She began to cry softly behind her veil."Ah," she thought, "if ever I live to get safe home again, I'll stay there.
I'll never tempt Providence more, on these night roads."Across the aisle two young girls were seated—the one pale-faced and rather plain, as Mrs. Esterhall had already noticed by the light of the cluster of lamps under which they were seated;
the other a brilliant young brunette,
with soft hazel eyes, peachy cheeks,
and wavy dark-brown hair, brushed carelessly back from a low, broad forehead. Presently the latter rose, and, coming to Mrs. Esterhall's side, asked in a soft, sympathetic voice:

"Are you ill, madam?"

"No—no," stammered the old lady,
quite forgetful of her society dignity.
"Only I am so faint and weary. I expected to dine at home, long before this hour, and I took almost nothing to eat
—before I started.""I have some nice, homemade chicken sandwiches in my bag," suggested the pretty girl. "My aunt insisted on my taking them, although I dined heartily before leaving home; and I have a little alcohol lamp with every convenience for making a good, strong cup of tea well. If you will allow me to prepare it for you—"Mrs. Esterhall was a genuine tea maniac. A new brightness came into her eyes at this suggestion."You are very kind," said she. "But you will want it yourself.""No," smiled the girl. "I don't care for tea. But my kind old aunt would put the things in. Now I am glad that she did so."In five minutes Mrs. Esterhall had eaten and drunk and felt infinitely refreshed. How it happened she did not pause to question herself, but she presently found herself reclining comfortably, with her head on a pillow improvised out of the folded blanket shawl that belonged to the young girl; and,
mingled with her drowsy reflections, came the soft, low murmurs of the sweet-eyed brunette, who had changed her seat and that of her companion to the one directly back of Mrs. Ester-hall, and was talking almost in a whisper."No, I am not going back; and I do not intend to communicate my address to anyone."

"Not even to him?"

"No, not even to him."

"But he loves you, dear."

"Yes; and that is the very reason I am determined to create no dissension between him and his friends. Perhaps he will forget me."

"He will never do that."

"But at least I shall feel that I have done my duty," said the hazel-eyed girl, firmly. "I shall love him to the end of his days, but I shall not have ruined
his future.""And all this," cried the companion,
"out of deference to the whims of an old woman whom you have never seen!""Out of deference to his mother, Alice," gently corrected the first speaker."What a quixotic notion!" dreamily mused Mrs. Esterhall. "But she has an excellent idea of duty, this darceyed little girl!""That is you, all over, Edith," said the friend. "You are always effacing yourself in favor of some one else. Here you are giving all your tea and sandwiches to a person you have never heard of, abandoning your seat to a poor little woman with a crying baby, because it is a trifle nearer the stove, and to ease everything, giving up the man you love and who loves you, because—"

"Because it is my duty," said Edith.

"Please, Alice, don't let us discuss the matter any longer. It is because I love Guion that I am willing to sacrifice everything for his sake.""Guion! Bless my soul! Guion!" thought Mrs. Esterhall, sitting suddenly up.
"But, of course, there are other Guys than mine in the world."Just then there was a tremble of the frozen ground under them, a roar and rush of lighted cars past them."The western express at last!" shouted the choleric old gentleman, bobbing up in his seat like an india-rubber ball.
"All aboard—ard!" bawled the conductor, with a twitch at the bell-rope; and on moved the train at last, creaking and groaning like some monster serpent in pain. Mrs. Esterhall leaned over the back of the seat, toward the hazel-eyed girl."My dear," said she, between the throbs of the engine, "is it Guion Es-terhall that you are speaking of?"The girl started and colored. She could not repress a cry of surprise."Yes, I thought so. Come over here and sit by me. I am his mother, and I want to talk to you."It was two o'clock in the morning when they reached Esterhall station, but the covered sleigh was waiting for them, with hot soapstone foot-warmers and about half a ton of furs and wrappings. And Edith Dallas stepped into the luxurious conveyance with Mrs. Esterhall, for the old lady had insisted on taking Edith home with her to the manor."She is such a contrast in every way to that selfish, cold-hearted Chippendale girl," said Mrs. Esterhall. "I'll telegraph to Guion at once. Really, it does seem as if there was a special providence in our train being kept so long waiting for the western express to pass."As if there is not a "special providence" in everything that happens in this world of ours!—Amy Randolph, in N. Y. Ledger.

Pot and handle cuts sufficiently to but never play with them. If you do, you will make tricky horses of them.We have lately seen a magnificent trot-with caution because he had an incon-rearing and striking with his fore feet at people. He meant no harm. He meant only play, but horse play is neither safe nor agreeable, whether among horses or human beings who sometimes imitate it. The stallion in question had been played with during his colthood and thus formed the habit of rearing and striking at boys when he was a little fellow. Now it is not safe for persons unacquainted with this peculiarity to approach him.The year 1894 witnesses the begin-

A Train of Thought

Is frequently the result of contemplation of a summer outing and where it should be spent, and if properly followed it will lead to your taking a train of the Wisconsin Central from the Grand Central Passenger Station, Chicago, for Lake Villa, Antioch, Burlington, Mukwonago, Waukegan, Waukegan, Ashland or some other equally popular resort where rest, enjoyment, recreation and sports are to be had in all their plenitude. For descriptive pamphlet, "Along the Line," write to Geo. C. Pond, General Passenger Agent,
Milwaukee, Wis.Register Tillman has some plain words to say about Eugene Gaddis, the republican treasury employee who is trying to prevent his removal by an appeal to the Federal court. Mr. Tillman says Gaddis has been guilty of the most disgraceful conduct, aside from the fact that his politics is objectionable.Our better halves say they could not keep house without Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is used in more than half the homes in Leeds, Sims Brox, Leeds, Iowa. This shows the reason in which that remedy is held where it has been sold for years and it will be well. Mothers have learned that there is nothing so good for colds, croup and whooping cough, that it cures these ailments quickly and permanently, and that it is pleasant and safe for children to take, as and so cent. bot-

their newspapers miss more than they presume.
Jonathan Kenison, of Illinois, Worth county, Iowa, who had been troubled with rheumatism in his back, arms and shoulders, read an item in his paper about how a prominent German citizen of St.
Louis had been cured. He procured the same medicine, and to use his own words, "it cured me right up." He also says: "A neighbor and his wife were both sick in bed with rheumatism.
Their boy was over to my house and said they were so bad he had to do the cooking. I told him of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and how it had cured me. He got a bottle and it cured him. He is up in a week. He sent for me to see him. I saw him and he was all right." Dr. S. G. Hocker, Stanford, Druggist, Stanford.
